

Sandy Solmon awarded the Berks Country/Business Weekly Traditions Steward Award

The award is presented to a longstanding business, organization or individual for their efforts to keep the traditions of business alive through positive interaction with agriculture business community and traditional business community.

Sandy Solmon began her business in Reading and expanded to a large, thriving, global business. Sweet Street offers employment in the region and regularly interacts with the agribusiness community, using locally harvested apples in its culinary creations. She supports charitable organizations. The award, presented by the Reading Eagle, celebrates her efforts to keep the traditions of business alive through positive interaction with the agriculture business community.
