

March 2015

Sweet Street Desserts is proud to announce that, effective immediately, we have ceased to use all fats and margarines that contain artificial trans fat in all our products.

In a few of our products, we use some ingredients (such as certain candy brands, butterscotch chips and peanut butter), which contain trace amounts of partially hydrogenated oils. We are working with our ingredient suppliers to remove all trace amounts of artificial trans fats.

Many of our products are now trans fat free, but it should be noted that trans fat is naturally occurring in the dairy products we use in some of our products. Ingredients such as milk, butter and cream cheese contain naturally occurring trans fats.

Sweet Street Desserts remains committed to providing an extraordinary line of great-tasting, innovative products that use only the highest quality ingredients. Our unwavering dedication to this issue will ensure your sweet success.
